of Times

[illegible]

Mariners made the most of their time in the mornings before the bell rang. News traveled fast among the groups of people standing in the hall. Almost everyone spent some time catching the news on who was dating whom, the latest color in OP shirts at Pete Smith's, or whether the Yankees or the Dodgers won last night's series game. Of course, there was always someone crouching in the hall near a locker doing some unfinished work, someone who had spent the previous evening at a Van Halen or Journey concert. The library, a perfect place for getting that up to the minute answer, was filled with last minute studiers while others filled the smoking lounge trying to get that "last puff" which would have to last until lunch. Still more Mariners found the cafeteria an excellent place to grab a bite to eat after getting up too late to eat at home. On occasion, a few students could not get themselves together and found themselves in Room 119 by order of their teacher.

▼ A student arrives early to add finishing touches to Spirit Week hall.

▲Helen Cho, Shannon Martin, Kelly Dunn, Maria Guardia, and Mary Kay Waltz arrive early for Punk Funk Day!

▲ Even though the 9:00 bell has rung, halls are not yet empty as students check in at the Attendance Office.

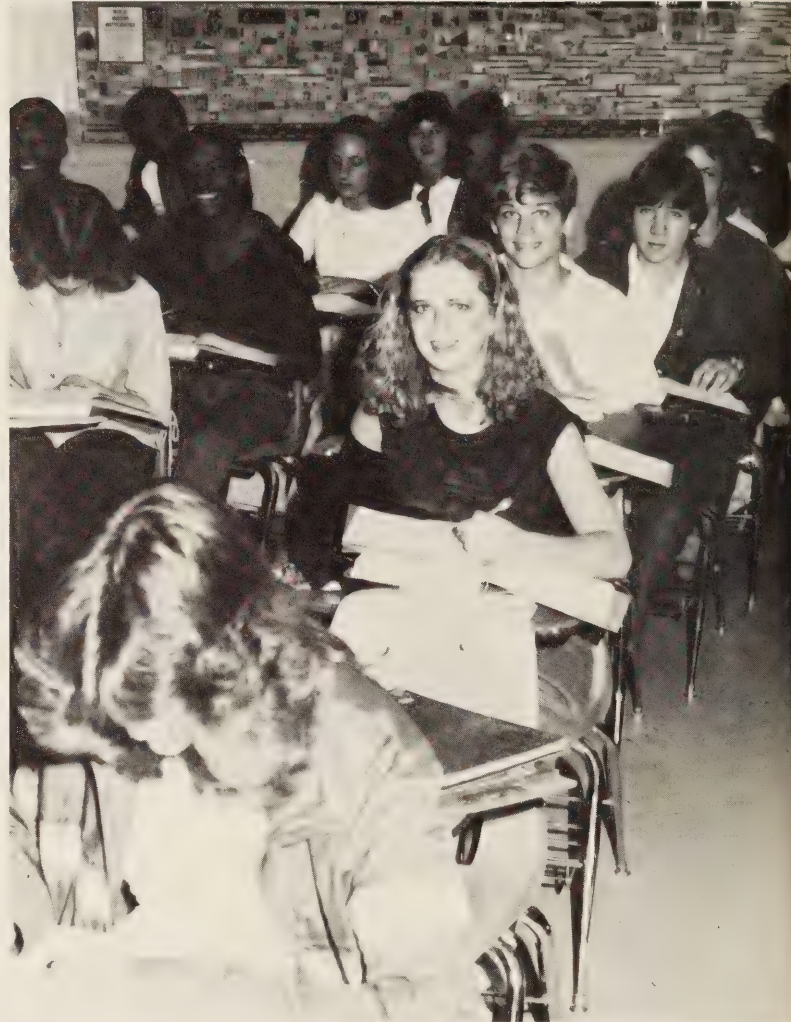

When the bell rang for first period, students went to class eager to begin the school day. Some students, those who found arrival on time difficult, were sent to the attendance office to check in for the day. As classes began, Mariners, wanting to start the day off right, pulled out their math, reading, or social studies assignments, ready for class discussions or pop quizzes. Some students added a little humor to class, yet these often found themselves going to see Mr. Turley on disorderly conduct charges.

Ferguson was filled with sympathetic teachers who handled such requests as, "I have to go to my locker," "I forgot my book," or "I am excused to go to an assembly, but I do not have my pass." They frequently answered these requests with a calm "no," followed by a talk on how materials should be brought to class by the student on time. Teachers were always needed, as there were always students who had trouble with their assignments.

Robin Clark, Scott Gray, and others wait for Mrs. Kelly to begin the Advanced Reading and Study Skills class.
Students kick back and jam in guitar class.

▲ Melissa Robinson takes time to work on her typing skills.

Fraternizing

Friends were found in classrooms, in hallways, at football games, dances, and just about any place else. Best friends were found, companions met, and new friendships formed between classes, during lunch, after school — any time Ferguson students gathered.

▲ Mary Page and Teré Clark enjoy each other's company at lunch.

▲ Cliff Meadows and Sandy White spend time together between classes.

Shared secrets, gossip, tragedies, and joys provided topics for conversation. Working together, eating together, and "goofing around" together were easy for Mariners, for it gave them a chance to do what they do best. However, this was not the only type of friendship seen at Ferguson. Occasionally, one could catch a glimpse of a more special relationship — one between a boy and a girl. Chivalry was not dead here, for it was a common sight to see a guy walking his best girl to class — sometimes even the other way around!

Seniors Chris Canavas, Neal Salken, and Howard Rosen enjoy a good time in class.

▲ Ronnie Herbin and Predist Brown return from Burger King raring to get back to class.

Karen Dolecki and Adya Maniyar enjoy spending time in the library together.

▲ Julie Hill and Dawn Irby pause for a picture while looking at the newest fashions.

Lunching and Lounging

Each day, lunch was Ferguson's finest half hour. Whether it was pizza in the cafeteria or a deluxe hamburger at a fast-food restaurant, lunch was a big break for all Mariners, giving them a chance to socialize and cure their hunger.

▲ Seniors show their spirit on Punk and Funk Day during lunch in the senior cafeteria.

pains and growling stomachs. Even though the cost of lunches was higher this year, Mariners' appetites still held strong.

Lunch time also served as a study period for those who wanted to do their homework and study for that big test the next period. Next to the cafeteria, the library was the most popular place for Mariners to go after relaxing and refueling in the cafeteria. There they could catch up on the recent news with their friends, read the latest issue of their favorite magazine, and check out books needed for projects and reports. As the bell rang for lunch to end, Mariners slowly returned to their classes and began the wait for 3:20 to arrive.

▲ Taking it easy during lunchtime, Steve Hankla, Kevin Roberts, Ken Barker and Bobby Coggin talk about the day ahead of them.

▲ Eating at Burger King is a daily habit for Ralph Navoa and Terri Shaughnessy.

as being talked about. Teachers were eager to walk around and assist those students who needed extra help. As the band started up and practicing began, all musicians eagerly got involved and melodious sounds emerged from the band room. Eagerly awaiting the end of the day, some Mariners got overly anxious and had trouble concentrating on their assignments and found it difficult not to look out the window. As the last five minutes of sixth period arrived, notebooks were shut and books slammed in preparations for the final bell and for the afternoon announcements. From this time forward, the students were completely unmanageable until, at last, they could be on their way home.

▲ Ms. Jones, in psychology class, carries on a group discussion concerning students' relationships.

▲ Perry Mann, Robert Hardy, Keith McNair, Kevin Jacobs, and Lavon Diggs attempt to keep in time with one another before practicing with the band.

▲ After finishing her timed writing, Jolene Burr finds humor in her score.

Leaving

As the last few minutes of sixth period arrived, all Mariners anxiously waited to run out of class and go home. At 3:15, the teachers stopped the lesson, and the announcements came on advising all students of bus changes and upcoming activities.

▲ Mariners walk through the hall decorated by the Juniors during Spirit Week.

▲ Buses prepare to pull away at the end of the day.

▲ Lisa Edwards, Sandy Heezen, and Stephanie Cantu model their costumes for punk and funk day as they are leaving school.

When, at last, the 3:20 bell rang, most Mariners ran out of class, rushed to their lockers, and got the books they needed for homework and studying. Anyone going in the wrong direction would have been trampled, as hundreds of Mariners poured out of the building to board the buses or go to their cars. Many Mariners were slowed in their exit, as they lingered after school to participate in activities or to stay to make up a test or to get needed help in a class. By 3:30, the halls were quiet, holding only the occasional reverberation of practiced cheers and the music accompanying the drill team.

◀ Excited over Spirit Week, Mariners rejoice while changing classes.

▼ Mariners rush to the waiting buses, eager to go.

▲ Along with friends, Wayne Soloman enjoys the excitement of Punk Rock Day before going home.

Meeting, Practicing

▲ Key Club members discuss their next project at a meeting led by President Ralph Novoa.

▲ Juniors plan and discuss the annual Ring Dance at meetings held twice a week.

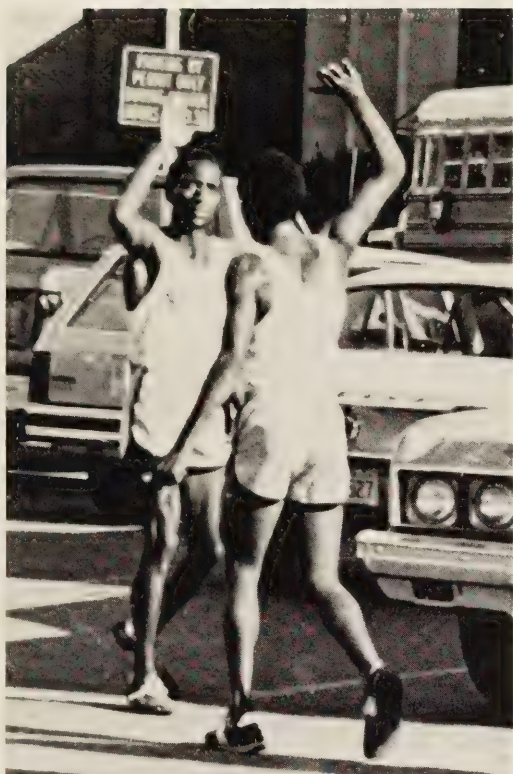

▲ Stephanie Brown gives her views on the band for the prom at a Senior class meeting.

As the 3:20 bell rang, many students ran to the cars and buses to go home, but many didn't. Many Mariners stayed after to participate in athletics and clubs. Athletes participated in both fall and spring sports such as tennis, football, field hockey and baseball. Many clubs met after school, and tutoring sessions provided students with extra help in classes. To help improve SAT scores, students were able to stay after school every Wednesday for practice on needed skills. After school, the halls weren't empty but many students filled the halls, taking part in many activities.

▲ Steve Wyche and Andrew Hawkins rejoice after track team success.

▼ As the Football team practices, Coach Bacote shouts instructions from sideline.

▲ Bess Scott concentrates on sharpening her field hockey skills.

▼ Hard practices prove to be an advantage for Becky Clements.

▲ Jennifer Fultz refills glasses at her waitressing job at Shoney's.

▲ Laura Palmer gives change to her customers at McDonald's.

▼ Ty Gentry waits for customers at Baskin Robbins.

After attending their classes at school, many Mariners went to work. Working at such places as Shoney's, McDonald's, Baskin-Robbins, and Lou Smith's gave students work experience and the opportunity to earn money for college or a car. Many students only went to three or four required classes and then went to their job. After school many Mariners rushed home, grabbed something to eat, and got ready to go to work. After a long afternoon at their jobs, working Mariners returned home to an evening to study and do their homework with little free time to go out or watch television.

▲ Mark Kramer and Kevin Roberts seem to enjoy their jobs at Baskin Robbins.

▼ Ronnie Puckett bags groceries as part of his job at Lou Smith's.

▲ Taking orders, Agnes Crissman eagerly waits on a customer.

Partying, Dancing, Dating

As a break from their everyday routine, Ferguson students got out on the weekends and enjoyed the night life. Partying was a major favorite as friends got together for socializing. Parties were a way for girls and guys to meet and get to know each other better. Many dances were held throughout the year.

Some came with dates and some came looking for dates. If students weren't looking for parties or dates, they were trying to buy tickets for upcoming concerts. However one concert, the Rolling Stones, was almost impossible to get tickets for, selling out in a little over two hours. Other concerts that Ferguson students attended in large numbers were Van Halen, Foreigner, Barry Manilow and Journey.

Relaxing

Brenda Burt puts down her bucket and sponge to take a break during the Keyette car wash.

Dean Simpson watches Shawn Bradley demonstrate his talents in drawing.

Aside from the busy school hours, Mariners enjoyed a small amount of that time to spend for themselves. Whether working on the yearbook, practicing a band number, washing cars with Keyettes, or preparing for the next game or test, Mariners couldn't resist the impulse "to take a short break." Talking to friends, exchanging notes of gossip, watching television, listening to the top groups and talking on the phone to soon to be girlfriends or boyfriends were ways of taking it easy for Mariners.

Some members of the Yearbook staff relax after meeting for final Mariner deadline.

Chuck Johnson and band members enjoy a brief moment to take it easy between performances.

After a hard day at school Marci Smith gets in some beauty sleep.

Coping

▲ Students wait in a long line, because of an additional grade overcrowding the cafeteria.

▲ One student handles his problems in Mrs. Ballard's class by sleeping through them.

▲ Vivian Katsantonis and Chris Canavos struggle through exams by studying intently, while Neal Salken copes by thinking of a new joke.

▲ The cold weather this winter gave good reason for students to bundle up as they head for their cars.

Throughout the year, students had to use their wits in coping with difficult situations. Mariners glanced at their notes before exams were given to get the last minute facts. When not as hungry, they hung around the main line to the snack line when the daily balanced meal proved unattractive. Mariners kept warm in class and outdoors by wearing heavy coats, scarves, hats, and mittens. When not interested in writing paragraphs, solving geometry problems or tackling tests, Mariners slept. Finally, Mariners and their teachers conversed about topics unrelated to school work, helping both to relax during and after a hard school day.

▲ Howard Roesen and Mrs. Anthony share a joke, breaking the classroom tension.

▲ Jill Stump hurriedly crams for one of her exams as she also tries to keep warm.

Administrators Introduce

New Policies

The administration introduced three new policies during 1981-1982. Two of the policies primarily concerned ninth graders, while one affected all students. The Class of 1985 will be required to earn twenty credits instead of eighteen to graduate. Also, they will have mandatory, full-day attendance during their senior year. All students at Ferguson now are affected by the third policy, which states that students who have five unexcused absences in any class receive a failing grade in that class.

The administrative staff had to deal with problems concerning overcrowding as a result of the addition of the ninth graders. Clogged hallways, "floating" teachers and lunchroom lines were evident throughout the year.

All four principals worked to abolish the feelings of apprehension toward the newcomers. Overall, Mr. Walter said that the year went smoothly, and that ninth graders belong in F.H.S.

Math and Science Prepare

Although math is not a required subject, many Mariners chose this as an elective course. Classes ranged from basic math to more complicated calculus. Math problems forced students to turn to various methods of reasoning. As they prepared for PSAT's and SAT's, math students turned to their teachers for additional help. Students were able to combine their mathematic and science skills in chemical equations and physics. Labs, science projects, tests, and many hours of note taking made up the hours spent in the science classes at Ferguson.

Departments Accept Challenges

The 1981-82 school year brought new challenges for the English and foreign language departments. Both departments found that the addition of the freshman class resulted in having "floating" teachers. The English teachers were challenged to encourage students to work to their potential, improve writing skills and SAT scores, and to provide experiences to enable students to pass the minimum competency test. The English department worked toward these challenges by adopting them as the goals for this year. To accomplish these goals there were SAT workshops every Wednesday after school and the teachers tried to raise the level of instruction in the classrooms. Mr. Hespenhide headed the Debate Club and Mrs. Ballard headed the Forensics, both sponsored by the English department.

The Foreign Language Department sponsored the International Club which had monthly meetings. Each language sponsored a meeting, teaching the other students about that language, cultures, and people. The International Club was comprised of students taking French, German, Latin and Spanish plus students who wanted to learn of these languages.

Students Show Leadership

Hard work and determination played a big part in the Social Studies Department. Studying for the Criteria Reference Test (CRT) became a daily exercise that was listed on the department agenda. Many students prepared themselves for the test and other challenges. The objectives of the Social Studies Department, according to Mrs. Anthony, were "to help advanced students develop the skills which will enable them to meet the challenge of college curriculum." She explained that overall the purpose of Social Studies is to make Ferguson students civic-minded and enable them to develop critical thinking.

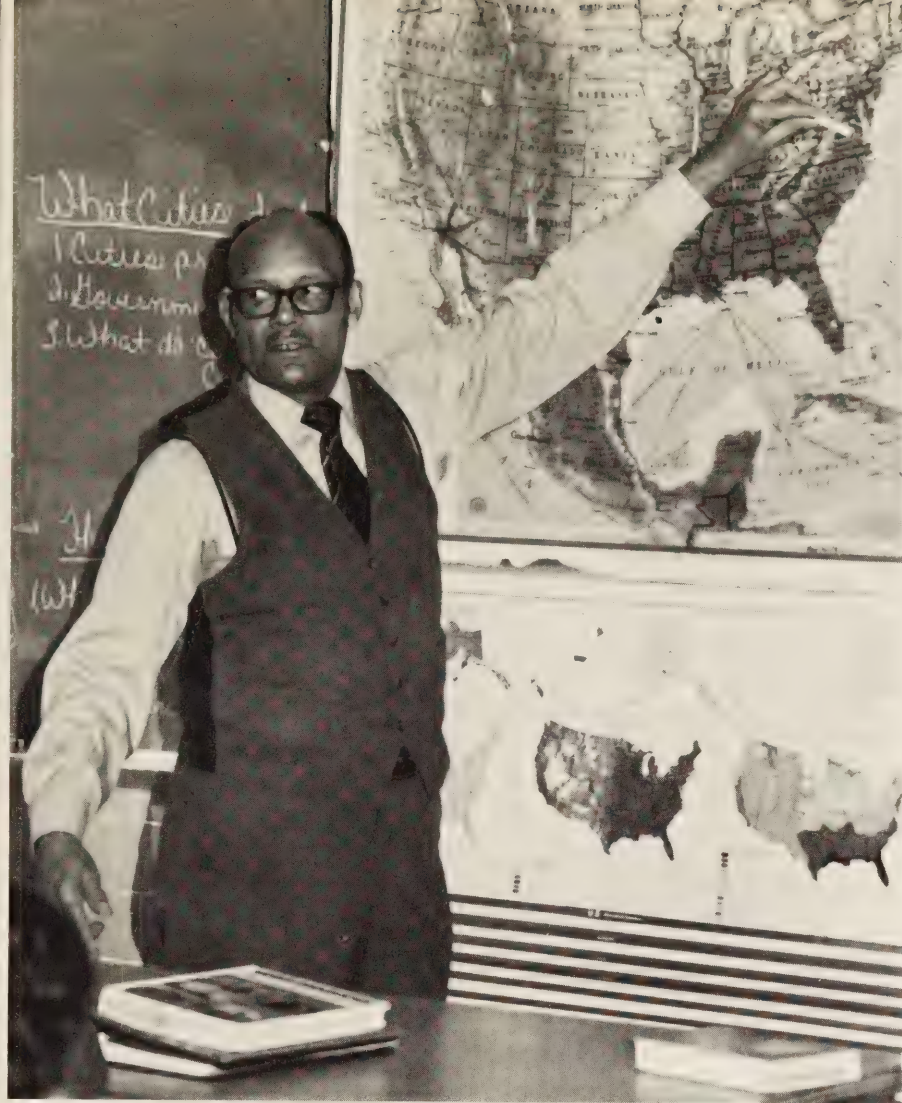

Model United Nations was the major club within the Social Studies Department. The sponsor, Mrs. Anthony, and the president, Parry Garrett, worked closely together to make this club more organized. It soon became a structured organization that raised money for UNICEF and helped students who planned to participate in the Model UN field trips. The two major field trips took place on February 4-6 at O.D.U. and February 11-14 at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. This club participated in several activities throughout the year. They attended lectures at Christopher Newport College on world issues. On January 29, a number of members heard Ambassador Spain, the U.S. Ambassador to Turkey, speak on the importance of the Eastern Mediterranean to the security of the U.S. Finally, they participated in World Affairs Seminars after school.

Business, DE, TAG Offer Students Skills

The Business Education program offered Mariners the opportunity to receive basic, supplemental, and career preparatory courses for training for gainful employment immediately following graduation, for personal use, and for college preparation in the area of business. The students received technical skills and knowledge needed for entry in general clerical, secretarial, clerk typist, and accounting occupations, skills and knowledge enabling them to use appropriate business principles and procedures in managing personal affairs, and skills necessary in evaluating employment opportunities in terms of personal capabilities and interests. In attempting to accomplish these goals, the business department was involved in a pilot program this year — all business classes except the Senior Intensified Program and Office Services Program were offered on a one-hour basis. Some courses were added and some revised, enabling more students to take advantage of a more varied business curriculum.

Fashion Merchandising was offered to students interested in pursuing a fashion career. They learned about the workings of the fashion world, sales promotion, display techniques, design analysis, and fashion forecasting.

Distributive Education allowed many Mariners to gain practical work experience while they were still in school. While in the classroom, they learned many skills in marketing, human relations, and communications intended to enable them to enter and succeed in distributive businesses.

TAG, a new program this year, offered fifteen Mariners a chance to work in the field of their choice. At a weekly class, students participated in activities focusing on skills necessary for any job. The Ferguson TAG program was one of two such programs in the state.

Students Encounter New Experiences

The Ferguson NAVY JUNIOR RESERVE OFFICER TRAINING CORPS unit began the ninth year of instruction when school opened in September. One hundred fifteen cadets greeted the instructors and fifty of them were selected to represent the City of Newport News by marching in the Yorktown Bicentennial Parade on opening day of the festivities along with other marching units from throughout the nation. The NJROTC Drill Teams performed with their usual outstanding sharpness at Drill Meets in Norfolk, the University of Virginia, Hampton Institute and at the Yorktown Weapons Station. Honor Guards were provided for the Homecoming Queen and her court. The National Color Guard served for all home football games and several basketball games. End of the year activities included the Military Ball and Awards Day where recognition was given to those cadets who were a bit above the average in their knowledge and dedication. Two cadets, David Minns and Bobby Perkins, were honor graduates of the Navy's Leadership/Mini Boot Camp held in Norfolk in the summer of 1981. Lieutenant Gregor and Master Chief Groves were the instructors.

Hammering, sawing and cutting were some of the many sounds coming from a shop class. Shop involved a student's ability to put two and two together to make one. Wood and nails were combined to create an object the student had invented. Once the product had been constructed, the students had a sense of accomplishment and success.

Home Economics was a course that involved cooking, planning and maintaining a home, and handling household problems. Students devoted much of their time and ability to this course. Much of the work done in class was carried over to the individual's home life. Students found the course fun and at the same time challenging.

Coaches Motivate Through Discipline

The P.E. and Health departments promoted good, healthy habits in the students this year. Health classes covered units such as Mental Illness, First Aid, and Consumer Education.

Striving for greater participation in all P.E. classes, the P.E. teachers tried to accomplish this through motivation and discipline. Throughout the year, every coach demonstrated various sports skills, directed daily exercises, and organized practice games. An active intramural schedule which involved the faculty as well as students was followed this year.

The Drivers' Education department concerned itself with developing confident and knowledgeable drivers and teaching safe driving skills.

Students Enriched Through Fine Arts

The Fine Arts Department continued to prove effective in keeping the Arts alive at Ferguson. The Art classes strove to attract more students through offering the Art Club which met after school. The club gave all students a chance to learn about crafts, sculpture, and graphic areas. The Art Exhibit in March gave art students an opportunity to display their skills. The Music Department developed the skills and talents of its students. The Band worked on marching and performing skills. The Band, along with Drama, sold fruit before Christmas to raise money. Several band members supported the Jazz Ensemble and Pops Orchestra. There were also guitar and orchestra classes. The chorus classes consisted of Ferguson Singers, Acappella, and Girls' Chorus. Mrs. Johnson, chorus director, attempted to have a Boys Chorus and a Music Theory class but could not find enough interested students. The drama classes, along with the Drama Club, sponsored two plays and a musical. The Drama Club participated in the Medley of the Arts and worked at the Peninsula Community Theater on "Annie Get Your Gun." The Fine Arts Department enriched the lives of Ferguson students in various ways.

Special Services Help Students Cope

Robert Hearst, head of Ferguson's Guidance Department, along with five other counselors, aided students with academic, vocational, and personal counseling. Unlike last year, students were assigned to their counselor by last name and not by grade. Mrs. Oder was a new addition to the guidance office; she maintained records, handled transcripts and ranking of students. Another new addition was a machine in the career room. It handled printouts for occupational information, colleges, graduate schools, military and financial aid. Other duties of the counselors included handling parent conferences, preparing a newsletter on a regular basis and handling the mock interviews in April.

The library had three new librarians, Mrs. Holland, Mrs. Bowie, and Mrs. McQueen. They assisted students, organized books and helped keep the library quiet. Several students chose to take Library Science, a course that involved organizing magazines, checking students' I.D.'s, and reshelving books. The library opened before school and remained open after school; thus, students found a quiet place to relax and study.

Nurse Josephine Eley conducted the biannual height and weight checks, along with nursing Mariners back to health.

Class of '82 Enjoys Active Year

The class of 1982 had an active year. The theme of their hall was "Riding High," which won them first place in the Hall Decorating Contest. They participated in the Miss Mariner Pageant, sponsored Senior Leadership Day, and planned the Senior Banquet. The prom was held at the Hellenic Center featuring the band Sandcastle. Seniors looked forward to their Graduation Day at Todd Stadium. To raise money, the Senior Class sold candy canes for seventy-five cents each, sponsored a car wash, and paid Senior dues.

Diligent Work Proves a Plus for Juniors

Under the direction of the class officers, the class of '83 joined together and made their junior year a triumph. The officers were Mark Kramer, President; Ann Pepper, Secretary; Jennifer Fultz, Treasurer; and Jennifer Fry, Reporter-Historian. The junior class worked diligently to make their Ring Dance, a major highlight of the year, prevail by earning money and selling candy bars. The juniors showed their spirit by decorating the halls for Spirit Week, winning second place in the Homecoming skit competition, and screaming and yelling during pep rallies.

Sophomore Officers

Work as a Unit

"Where is room 100?" "100? It's down the main hall to the end. Take a right and it's the first door on the left." That's what was heard on orientation day in September, when Sophomores first arrived at Ferguson.

In an assembly, these newcomers were introduced to principals, SCA, and basketball and football coaches. They were encouraged to cooperate, participate and support. They showed their interest and spirit by decorating their hall during Spirit Week and putting on a skit for the Homecoming Assembly. Elected in September, Sophomore class officers (Sean Hamilton, President; Henry Tyson, Vice-President; Stephanie Cantu, Secretary; and Steve Ikonmou, Treasurer) worked diligently throughout the year to produce a prosperous class of 1984.

Sophomores Have An Exciting Spirit Week

Spirit Week was a blast for Sophomores. With some old clothes, glittering make-up, silver or gold shoes, long plastic beads, satin bows, and dazzling sunglasses, Sophomores displayed their outrageous costumes during Punk Funk day. Under their theme "Whip the Raiders," the Sophomore class decorated their hall with posters showing the Raiders being defeated by the mighty Mariners. The football game of spirit week was cheered on by enthusiastic sophomores.

Class '85 Shows Spirit

The class of '85 showed their school spirit by participating and getting involved in many activities. The Freshman Class Officers were Chris Hamilton, President; Jenny Decker, Vice President; Misty Wright, Secretary; Andi Miller, Treasurer; and Reporter Historian, Kendahl Jordan. They planned two fund raising events to help raise money to have a successful freshman year. Their class decorated the hall during Spirit week, and for Homecoming they proved their enthusiasm with a first place skit and third place in the overall Homecoming competition.

Senior Opinion Poll

Senior Mariners, in the Annual Staff Opinion Poll, were asked to choose their favorite of the movies, music, and stars of the year. The Rolling Stones concert in Hampton had a monumental effect on the results, causing the Stones to take the top in all music categories. Tom Selleck, a newcomer, took first above all other male stars. However, his show Magnum PI did not fare as well. When asked what was done in their spare time, most Mariners agreed that partying was their favorite pastime.

Seniors Select Superlatives Early

One senior tradition changed this year when the Senior Class voted in February for their Superlatives. This early voting resulted from an effort on the part of the yearbook staff to recognize the Superlatives in the 1982 Mariner. Seniors nominated their favorites in each category, and then voted for those who had been nominated most often. Despite coaxing from the curious as well as the nominated, the results remained confidential, not being revealed until the Senior Banquet held in May.

Seniors Prepare for Spring Events

▲ The graduating class begins to line up for their entrance into Todd Stadium.

▲ At one of the many meetings the senior class held, Ricky Hatcher brings up suggestions for senior prom.

As spring came, Seniors grew more excited about upcoming spring events. Under the guidance of Mr. Farmer, they prepared for graduation by ordering their caps and gowns and sending out announcements. Their leadership was shown on Senior Leadership Day as they replaced the teachers and other staff members. Superlatives were announced during the Senior Banquet held the second week in May. Seniors studied college catalogues and decided on a perfect college to attend, hoping for acceptance.

After picking an evening dress, shoes, and a tux to match, reservations were made for a quiet dinner at an elaborate restaurant. The band Sandcastle performed at the Senior Prom held on May 30. A few days before graduation, Seniors were allowed to miss some classes as they traveled by bus to Todd Stadium for rehearsals. On the day of Graduation, Seniors were thrilled as they received their diplomas.

Spirit Is Not Enough

Although the Varsity Football team won their two most important games, defeating Warwick and Phoebus, those were the only two wins of the '81 season. Co-captain Kevin Fox said the season was really disappointing, but they didn't give up. "We had spirit when the time came, but spirit doesn't win a game, experience does." Junior Quarterback Mike Cooke agreed, commenting, "Through the year we gained experience but it took a while for the backs to get to know and adjust to the linemen." The most outstanding players were Brian Rainey, James McClain and Craig Blandford for offense; Alan Bailey, Delanore Tyler, Kenny Smith and Craig Blandford on defense.

Coach Ted Bacote described the season as successful in getting the guys ready for life. "They learned to overcome obstacles and didn't quit. Victories are always nice, but they only last a week."

Small Team Plays Big!

The J.V. Football team only had 26 players this year, but that didn't stop their fighting spirit. And even though five players had been injured by the end of the season, they brought their record to 4-4. To make up for the lack of manpower some team members played exceptionally well. These were Maury Mc-Clain, Rodney Joiner, Kenny Smith, Antonio Lee, and Greg Fair.

Although the team's record wasn't the best, the players had a lot of spirit and really enjoyed playing. With most of the J.V. players moving up to Varsity next year, Coach Bacote is looking forward to a successful '82 season.

Mariners Keep The Pace

Adding Dirl Riddle to the cross-country coaching staff might have been one reason the team's record reversed from last year's 3-5 to this year's 5-3. And although Coach Riddle described the season as "fairly successful," many team members felt it was the best season they had had in a while.

The girls' team started out fairly large but by the end of the season, members were scarce. Members who stuck out the season included Lucy McKeithen, a newcomer to the school and in her first year of running, and Lisa Decker, in her third season. Lisa succeeded in making her way to District and Regionals, along with the entire boys' team. Steve Wyche and Andrew Hawkins, both seniors, were chosen most outstanding runners and Chris Quesenberry was chosen by Coach Riddle as most improved. He commented, "For a sophomore in his first year running to move up to number five position from way down the line is really good."

▲ Carl Stevens exhibits perfect running form.

▲ With all his might, Larry McCuller struggles to catch up and pass his opponent.

Many members of the cross-country team also participated in the Indoor Track season. The team members captured third place in the District/Regional Meet, earning them a berth in the State Meet at VMI. William Carpenter proved to be a valuable asset to the team taking second place in the shot put at the William & Mary Invitational and the District/Regional Meets.

“No Ties” Hurts Hockey Team

From the way the season started, it looked like the girls' Field Hockey team would have a promising year. But rules dealing with ties were changed this year, which hurt the team's record. There were many close games and, because no ties were allowed, two of the Lady Mariners' games were lost in overtime.

According to Miss Preston, the head coach, the greatest handicap came toward the end of the season. Some players didn't think “teamwise,” which made it harder on other team members.

Miss Preston summed up the year by saying, “It is a fairly young team and they played better than the record lets on.”

The J.V. team had better luck though. According to coach Beth Brannan, hard work and good conditioning were their greatest assets. Since the J.V. team was allowed to have ties, their record of 6-2-2 was a little better. Coach Brannan said she was pleased with the efforts of the players and expects they will make a great varsity.

Lack of experience bogged down the Girls' Tennis Team. Having only one returning letterman from the top six players of last year's team, the girls' record waned to 1-7 from last year's 3-5, defeating only Warwick. The team's promising newcomers were Becky Clements and Melissa Robinson. Coach Phillips said that the two returning girls will be a great asset next year. With high hopes for the coming season, Coach Phillips explained the handicap: "The ability was there; the experience was needed to bring it out."

◀ Cleveland Jordan "tips for two" and helps Ferguson maintain second place in the regular season.

Varsity Basketball Team Has Victorious Year

The Ferguson Mariner Varsity Basketball Team had a victorious year finishing tied for second place in the district 1981-1982 regular season play. Co-Captains, Jeff Harris and Darrell Terry, both seniors, led their team with experience and dedication to a regular season 15-6 record. Other top-notch performers included Seniors Marcus Evans, Al Dutch, Cleveland Jordan, and Junior Tere Clark.

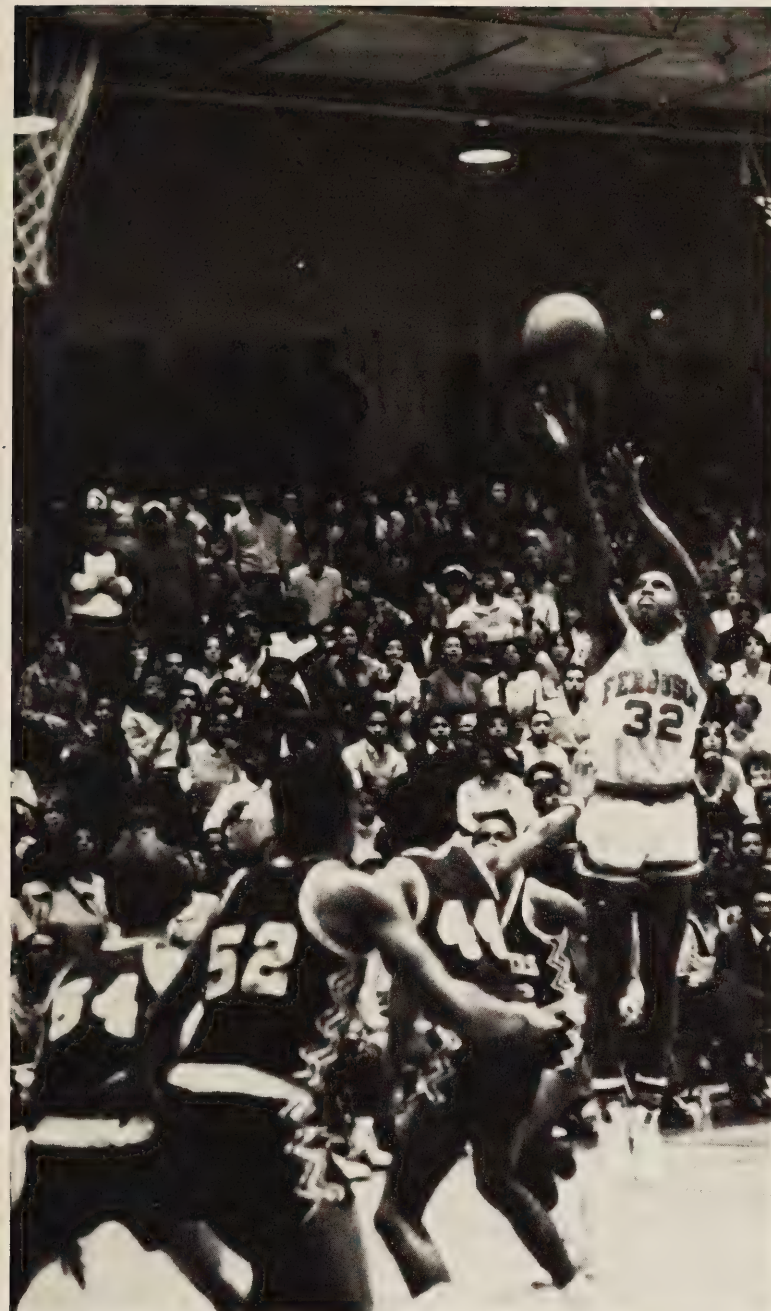

The Mariners again participated in the Fort Eustis Christmas Tournament and won top honors in their division. Darrell Terry earned the title of Most Valuable Player for the tournament.

Perhaps the most exciting but disappointing game was the second Warwick regular season game. Time after time, the Mariners tied up the game and led several times. In the end, the Raiders were the victor by one field goal.

However, that game was put in the past as the Mariner Varsity Basketball Team moved on to participate in the District Tournament.

▲ Tere Clark moves in to get the ball in scoring position.

▲ It takes more than three Raiders to keep Co-Captain Darrell Terry from shooting.

J.V. Learns Quickly

In spite of the change in J.V. coaches, team spirit remained high. Due to hard work and good team play, the team suffered only two losses and ranked second in the league. Because this was the first year of league play for most members, many basic skills needed improvement but the players proved their ability to learn these skills, along with the ability to come back after being down in score.

According to Coach Hott, the team's most valuable player was Vincent Richardson, averaging thirteen points per game. The promising newcomers included Leonard Mings, Chris Green, Maury McClain, David Blowe, Terence White, Chris Warren and Mike Alston. With a seasonal record of 11-2, the coaches were hopeful that the players would make a promising Varsity team.

Girls' Team Proves Outstanding

The Girls' Basketball team was the best Ferguson had seen in a long time as they illustrated the true meaning of winning. The team went beyond what most people thought they were capable of. With a record of 9-0 by mid-season, the girls had an unbeatable reputation. Coach Carol Frenck, with the assistance of Linda Baumler, Marilyn Watkins and Susan Richardson, worked to make the girls a "cohesive unit." Whether the girls were out on the court or on the bench cheering the team on, their spirits were always high, especially during the Ft.

Eustis Tournament, which was held during the Christmas break. The girls soundly defeated Bethel and Menchville, but were defeated by Phoebus in the finals by a score of 41 to 24.

Carol McIntosh, a senior this year, proved to be the team's most valuable player, averaging 12 points per game. The promising newcomers this season were Mandy Martin and Charlotte Webb, both ninth graders. Coach Frenck commented, "They are very coachable and we see great things in their future."

Team Lacks Support

The 81-82 Wrestling Team, because of few returning seniors and minimal participation by new students, suffered a losing season. They fell from last year's winning 9-2 record to a 2-9 record. In spite of this, however, their team managed to finish 4th in the District Meet.

Earl Brooks, who was runner up in the district and 4th in the region last year, kept a strong hold on the number one position through the season and finished first in the District for his weight class. During the Christmas break, eight people placed in the Deep Creek Christmas Tournament, with Earl Brooks taking the only first place.

According to Coach Pat Ryan, most of the promising wrestlers were freshmen. These freshmen included Mike Webster, Tyrone Lawrence, Jim Richardson, and Tim Rainey. Promising sophomores were Mike Mullins, John Walker, Arthur Cofield, and Carlton Fennell. Coach Ryan hopes for a better season next year and more student support.

Mariners Think Spring

As the winter months came to and end, Mariners' thoughts turned to Spring Sports. The fields were packed with baseball, soccer, golf, track and tennis members. All participants were hopeful for a promising season and worked hard to show their spirit.

Coach McDougal of the baseball team had high hopes for his team. "They are more experienced, so they should do better," he said. He hoped to go to State, but said they will conquer one thing at a time.

Tennis Coach Brian Adkins, a newcomer to the Ferguson coaching staff, hoped to be a strong challenger for the District Title. The team finished 5th last year and has sufficient tennis ability among the new members to make it to one of the top three places.

Coach Hott expected his Golf team to be a strong challenger for District also. He hoped to see great potential from Barry Head, Reed Taffer and Kent Piland.

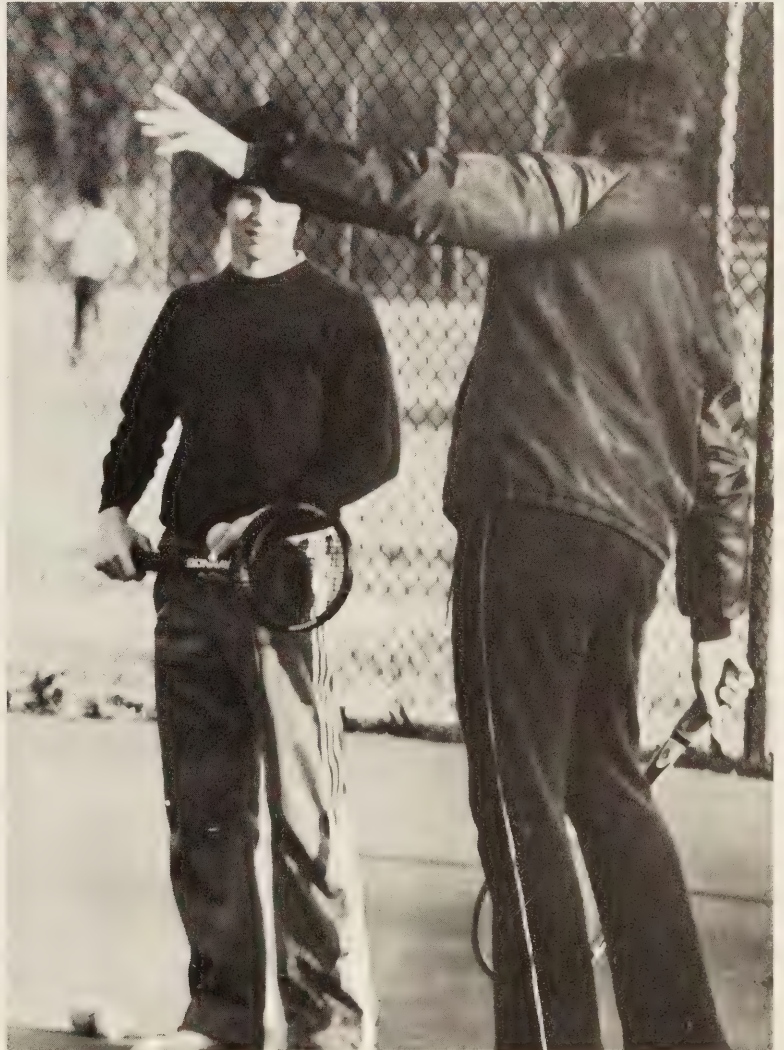

▲ Billy Malcolm waits to try his skill as soccer goalie.
▼ New members brush up on their soccer skills.

▲ Joel Spielberger hurls the ball homeward.
▼ Coach Adkins instructs Ricky Stevenson on his backhand shot.

Coaches Scott and Bacote hoped their track teams would experience winning seasons. They hoped to develop a lot of team spirit and morale among the newcomers. Coach Bacote hoped the boys team would do well, since many members participated in the Cross-Country and Indoor Track seasons.

Hard Work Pays Off for Cheerleaders

The Varsity and Junior Varsity Cheerleaders were busy since the squads were chosen last spring. Attending summer camp at William and Mary for four days, they competed against 25 other schools. The Varsity Cheerleaders received an award of excellence every night they were there, while J.V. Cheerleaders walked away with awards of excellence and superiority, along with helping the Varsity capture the Spirit Stick for Ferguson.

The squads were close knit and everyone took part in the fundraising projects, such as selling spirit buttons, candy and sweaters left over from last year. Not only did they cheer for the teams, they also donated a cooler of orange drink from McDonalds to the football teams and supplied the Field Hockey team with fruit for halftime.

Varsity captains Agnes Crissman and Gail Mitchell agreed that the squads were

J.V. captains Nan Carney and Paula Thomas said the Varsity and J.V. got along well and agreed with Agnes and Gail that, "We had excellent sponsors, which helped a lot." Nan said the J.V.'s are looking forward to next year when they hope to do more to promote spirit among students and do more for all sports.

Promote School Wide Projects

The Student Advisory Committee, composed of thirteen members from the freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classes, met with Principal Tim Walter on a regular basis. Their major project for the year was to promote school spirit and discuss issues that affected the students and the total school program. If any student had an area of concern or a complaint he was able to contact one of the SAC members and feel sure that his problem would be discussed.

The Student Cooperative Association led by Earnest Greene, the president, conducted a number of activities during the 81-82 school year. They began the year with the organization of Homecoming Week. In November, they held Penny Day in order to raise money for food for needy families at Thanksgiving. Toys for Tots was scheduled during Christmas and the SCA collected old toys from students to pass on to those who would not receive Christmas gifts. The SCA, the Ferguson Singers and the band, dressed up as elves, visited local elementary schools before the Christmas holidays, singing, talking, and distributing candy canes to the students. As the semester came to a close, and all the "sweating out" of exams ended, there was an After Exam Jam which allowed relieved students to come together and "boogie down."

Honor Students Strive For Goal

The new year brought with it various activities for the T. Ryland Sanford Chapter of the National Honor Society. Their first activity involved the winter induction of new members. The club scheduled monthly meetings with guest speakers and at these meetings discussed future plans of action. Attempting to reach their goal of purchasing a marquis for the front of the school, NHS held car washes and collaborated with CNC to bring the Rambling Conrad's, a historical musical group, to Newport News. In addition, the club planned a Ferguson t-shirt and cap sale to further school spirit and to raise money for the marquis. NHS also contributed, as they do each year, to the Margaret Lane Scholarship awarded to the school's outstanding student.

Membership in the Keyettes or Key Club required participation and an interest in helping others.

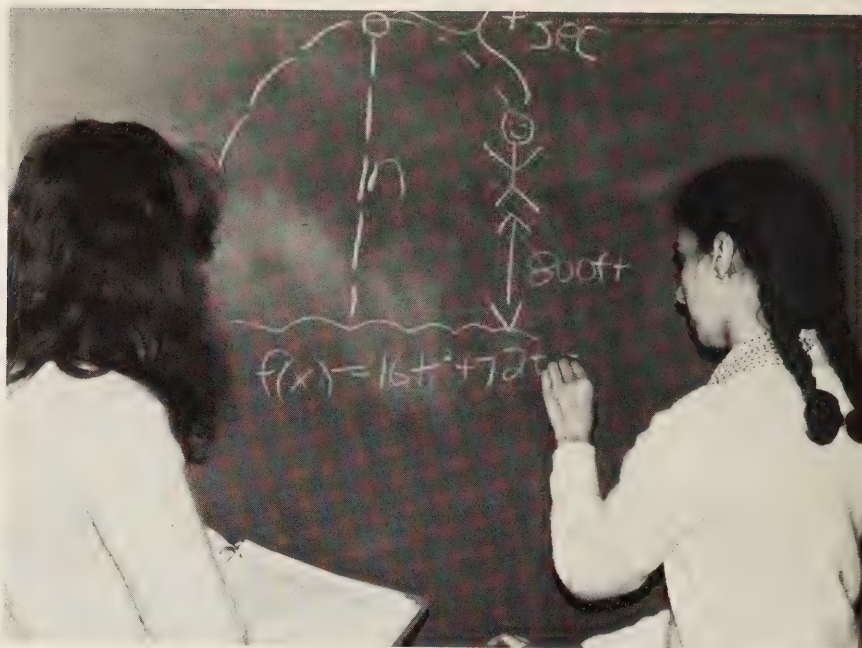

The Keyettes met every Wednesday morning at 8:30, with President Eileen Levy, to discuss various ways of helping our school and our community. Volunteer service for the Special Olympics was their International Project. A car wash was sponsored to support the Ronald McDonald House in Norfolk. At Thanksgiving, Keyettes supplied canned goods to three needy families. At Christmas the Keyettes rang bells for the Salvation Army at shopping centers. Along with their Community sponsor, the Woman's Club, Keyettes helped sponsor Santa's House, where children saw Santa Claus and were able to purchase gifts for their parents. They sponsored their annual Sadie Hawkins dance in March, and provided funds for a refrigerator for the teacher's lounge, and met the needs of the elderly throughout the year by visiting community nursing homes, such as the Newport News Convalescent Home.

Under the leadership of President Ralph Novoa, the Key Club participated in many activities throughout the year. They supported the Muscular Dystrophy Association by assisting in a Danceathon. The Key Club attended social lunches. The Key Club also sponsored a fall dance under the community sponsorship of the Kiwanis Club members.

School Clubs Hold Students' Interest

The Math Club took on many of its constitutionally prescribed duties this year. John Stein, the president, and Mrs. Askew, the sponsor, worked together to build the Math Club into a more interesting school activity. Its purposes were "to broaden and deepen the interest of its members in mathematics, to increase the knowledge of the subject, and to pass on to others an appreciation of the values and the beauties of mathematics." The club undertook new activities such as setting up tutoring sessions for those students who needed help in their math area. The club members also pursued their yearly duties of planning for Elective Fair, and Math Contest and promoting the National Math League Contest given once a year in the spring.

The Art Club met every first and third Thursday under the supervision of Mrs. Shird, the art teacher. The purpose of the club was to give extra working time to those enrolled in art classes and provide those not enrolled in any art class with the chance to practice their art work. To broaden the interest of its members, the club held various workshops in calligraphy, glass and textile painting, and stone cutting and polishing for jewelry. They held their annual art exhibit and presented displays during Fine Arts Week, where talented Mariners were able to show off their work.

Future scientists of America arose from the Science Club. Students in science classes such as Chemistry, Biology, Zoology, and Senior Science were encouraged to participate in the Science Club. Members promoted the annual Science Fair as a means of putting scientific knowledge into practical presentation.

This year's top winner was Laura Kopelson who later took her project to Virginia Junior Academy of Science. This statewide science fair was attended by many members and even those who did not attend still helped those who entered their projects. After having won the E.C.L. Miller Award at last year's VJAS, the club members strove to win it again this year. Besides the various Science Fairs, the Science Club actively sold coupon books with the help of Sheryl Curbow, the president of the club.

Clubs Sharpen Students' Political Skills

Model U.N. was made up of the International Relations Class and a number of outstanding Juniors who worked with Mrs. Anthony after school every day. In addition to preparing for the Model U.N. at O.D.U. and the 19th North American Invitational Model United Nations at Georgetown, the students attended various lectures at C.N.C., one of which was given by a representative from the State Department. The students competed at O.D.U. where there were 45 public and private high schools in Virginia present. Howard Roesen, Charles Crutchfield from Warwick H.S., and Paul Weaver were chosen Most Outstanding Delegation to the Security Council. Charles Crutchfield was chosen the best delegate in this council. John Stein and Patricia Hamilton received an honorable mention for Best All Around Delegation. When the students competed in Georgetown, they fared equally well. Four delegations from FHS joined 2000 other high schools from the U.S. and abroad. Again, Howard Roesen and Charles Crutchfield were named Most Outstanding Delegation to the Security Council. Two other students served as justices on the International Court of Justice and six more took part in intervention simulations.

Ferguson organized its first Debate Club this year. Members spent many hours diligently researching at the library, in order to compete in upcoming debates. The club also sold Homecoming flowers to pay for debate expenses.

Spelling bees, poetry, prose, and expressive speech were all a part of Forensics. Under the guidance of Mrs. Ballard and President Jera Killam, students expressed their feelings through their interpretation of the selection chosen. Members of Forensics were involved in school competition. The student who received first prize competed in the district region. The winning student then advanced to regional and finally state competition. The students who represented Ferguson were Ricky Hatcher in Boys' Prose; Kathy Torian in Girls' Prose; Joe Klapperich in Boys' Poetry; Mary Anne Gillam in Girls' Poetry; Howard Roesen in Boys' Extemporaneous Speaking; Caryn Ross in Girls' Extemporaneous Speaking; Bob Mason in Boys' Oratorical Speaking; Holly Christiansen in Girls' Oratorical Speaking.

The Social Studies Club, opened to anyone interested in the social science field, began the year with an organizational meeting in October. Under the direction of President Darryl Vines and school sponsor Miss Pierce, the club planned possible trips to Richmond, Williamsburg, and Norfolk. The club's activities consisted of listening to and visiting various places of historical interest such as Mariner's Museum. They hosted various speakers including Doctor Buck Miller from the Social Science Department at CNC.

Business Clubs Offer Opportunities to Students

For the members of VICA (Industrial Clubs of America) this year proved to be an exciting one. Under the leadership of President Sheila Simpson and school sponsor Mrs. Patterson, VICA sponsored fundraising projects such as a cookie sale and a candy sale. Their social events included a skating party and a banquet for the employees and their employers. Each year VICA also sponsors their annual District Rally State Competitions.

Vocational understanding, civic consciousness, social intelligence, and leadership qualities were encouraged by members of DECA (Distributive Education Clubs of America). DECA members met once a month to discuss sales projects, banquets, and recreational activities. With the aide of school sponsor Mrs. Buchanan, the members sold stuffed animals and candy. A skating party was held in February. The Fall Event was presented at Mariner's Museum. DECA also sponsored a fashion show in April. Speakers from various businesses came to discuss with DECA members the possibilities. Officers included President, Keith Highsmith; Vice-President, Nicky Solomon; Secretaries, Zelta Briley and Tracy Mulkey; Treasurer, Kelly Dunn; Parliamentarian, Deborah Freeman; and Reporter, Gerri Hochaday.

The Future Business Leaders of America, under the guidance of Mrs. Young held meetings once a month. The officers were President, Brenda Burt; Vice-President, Zina Swindell; Secretary, Darlene Wilkes; Treasurer, Doug Clark; Parliamentarian, Lisa Smiley; Reporter, Mary Pierce; Historian, Teresa Guynn; and Chaplain, Mary Hager. This year's club organized many activities to benefit the school and community. At Thanksgiving, they collected canned foods and took holiday dinners to needy families. They assisted the Virginia Lung Association with a program held at Coliseum Mall to discourage smoking. To earn money, they held a fruitcake sale during the months of October through December. At Christmas, they visited the Pediatric Ward at Riverside Hospital. Throughout the year, they had many guest speakers, familiarizing members with the many opportunities offered to them in the business field. Many members attended the regional meeting held at Thomas Nelson Community College where they attended workshops.

Drama Presents “Cheaper by the Dozen”

Many activities kept the Drama Club busy this year. They produced three plays and participated in a major fruit sale to help raise money to support the Peninsula Community Theater. They participated in such projects as the Medley of the Arts show at Coliseum Mall and worked diligently building sets and positioning lights for special assemblies and such special events as the Miss Mariner Pageant. Under the direction of Patricia Quinn and President Jera Killam, the Drama Club produced many plays and provided Ferguson with much entertainment.

The International Thespian Society guided by Miss Quinn was active throughout the year. All worked to perfect performances in the three plays presented this year. In the fall they worked on “Cheaper by the Dozen.” They planned a spring musical and a third play to be given by the people in the drama class. The Thespians sold fruit cakes in an effort to raise money for the drama department and conducted their annual Thespian Banquet.

The 1981-82 Marching Band Entertains With Style

Members of the Ferguson band showed their spirit and enthusiasm as they provided entertainment for all Mariners during assemblies, pep rallies, and football games. As a special honor, the Ferguson band was allowed to play in the William and Mary Homecoming parade and the Spring Thing held in Newport News. To raise money, they sold fruit to help purchase musical equipment and supplies. The band decorated the Todd Field during half-time at home games with their special talent, providing the spectators with music.

Ferguson Singers Perform With Class

With new additions to the group, Ferguson Singers provided much enjoyment and entertainment at assemblies and at the Homecoming Football Game. To raise money the Ferguson Singers participated in the Rock-A-Thon at Coliseum Mall and they sold candles at Christmas to get money to go to Washington, D.C. for the annual festival. Dressed in their spring outfit of blue shirts and white pants and their winter outfits of black pants, vest, and red shirts, the Ferguson Singers were often seen entertaining the student body on stage during assemblies and in the halls before the Christmas holidays.

Drill Team, Majorettes Build Spirit

Designed to promote school spirit, the Drill Team performed at games, pep assemblies, and in parades accompanied by the band. Drill Team captured the eye of everyone in the audience at the homecoming pep rally as they danced to the jazz song, "Work Your Body." Drill Team required a lot of hard work. To be a member a girl tried out and was chosen from a number of girls. The members of the Drill Team attended NCA Spirit Leader's Summer Camp at the University of Richmond. There they learned some dances and some fundamental steps of jazz. In competition at camp, Ferguson's Drill Team brought home a spirit pompon. This year the Drill Team purchased "flash" gloves and monogrammed one of their uniforms. They sold candy and donuts. The school sponsor for Drill Team was Miss Tilley. Captain Gerri Hockaday and Co-captain Debbie Mooney led the team this year.

This year's majorette team improved greatly and gained confidence due to better routines. This year's routines were developed by Sandi's sister, Debbi Berry. The school sponsor was Ms. Young. The captain was Sandi Berry, and she was also the feature twirler. The majorettes added spark and flare to pep rallies and football games as they performed for spirited Mariners. As a special honor, the majorettes were given the privilege of playing in many holiday parades.

Clubs Learn About Other Countries

The AFS (American Field Service) gave students the opportunity to learn about countries and their customs. The AFS was active in various projects which included the raffling of a quilt and the planning of an International Weekend Supper. In November foreign students spent the day at Ferguson and a banquet was held in their honor. President was Sharon Smith, school sponsor, Mrs. Halberg and community sponsor Mrs. Alvis.

Learning about foreign countries and discovering new languages was a major part of participating in the International Club. Under the leadership of President Wendy Pleninger, meetings were held each month and at each meeting a different language was in charge of the presentation. Students studying the language served food and organized a presentation that consisted of speakers and films from that country. Selling carnations for Valentine's Day was a major project for all members. The annual banquet was held in the spring and each member brought a dish from the country the group was studying.

Windjammer

Keeps Students Informed

Extra, Extra, read all about it, in the Windjammer, of course. The 1981-82 Windjammer kept students and faculty well-informed on such issues as nationwide trends in cheating, alcohol and drug abuse, teacher dedication, and unique programs and individuals.

Under the leadership of sponsor Agnes Brabrand and Editor Holly Read, the talented staff of writers spent many hours writing, re-writing, editing and laying out an informative newspaper.

Besides producing the newspaper, journalism students took part in summer workshops at VCU, the annual Daily Press contest and the ever constant drive to pursue more advertisers.

▲ Mrs. Brabrand discusses new ideas with editor Holly Read and reporter Denise Boutwell.

◀ LaShone Stevens uses her typing skills to type an article.

▲ Holly Christiansen, Stephanie Halsey, and Rose Porter prove that developing a newspaper is not only hard work, but also a lot of fun.

▲ Laurie Collier and Sandy Heezen alphabetize class pictures.

▲ Annette Borst and Lisa Edwards sort through a stack of pictures for their section.

◀ Ms. Rimkus helps Melinda Monk and Christie with their layout.

▲ Jennifer Fry types a list of names for the yearbook.

▼ Tina Stinnette, Kim Reynolds, and Kim Judd pitch in to make the yearbook a success.

Staff Produces “The Best of Times”

The yearbook staff was very busy this year producing one of Ferguson's finest yearbooks. From the first day of school, the staff was busy planning and organizing this year's Mariner. Working from their theme "The Best of Times" the staff added a new student life section and more color pages to make this year's annual one of the best. Selling ads to various businesses, laying out spreads, and writing copy for clubs, activities, and events were all jobs performed by each staff member. Deadlines were met with hard work, patience, and understanding. Yearbook sales held during October were extended through November so everyone would have the opportunity to purchase a yearbook.

Spirit Week

Ends With Football Victory

As the week rolled on, the sights got stranger. Spirit Week brought out many different characters. Monday started the week with Mariners modeling the rattiest clothes they could find for Bum Day. Tuesday was Twin Day and seeing double didn't mean having an eye problem. Wednesday brought cowboys and cowgirls out in full swing for Western Day. Blue and White as far as the eye could see was the case on Thursday — Blue and White Day. Colored hair and wild clothes decorated Mariners as they gave their impressions of Punk on Punk/Funk Friday. The seniors captured First place in the hall decorating contest with streamers, fish net and sinking ships labeled "Warwick." The seniors decided to show the underclassmen what spirited meant as they took the spirit stick at Friday's pep rally. The week was highlighted with a flair as all the spirit helped the football team sink the Raiders with a score of 20-0 Friday night. The excitement concluded on Saturday with a dance, held in the cafeteria.

▼ Seniors Howard Lee, Sheryl Curbow, Marci Smith, Amy Meyer and Howard Roesen express their true pur feelings in Mrs. Sharpe's Senior Science Class.

▲ Clarence Akers and Rodney Pryor help Stacey McNeil decorate the victorious seniors' hall during Spirit Week.

▼ At the Pep Rally concluding Spirit Week, seniors exhibit the spirit that made them victors.

▲ Monique Merrel and Zina Swindell dress up for Twins Day.

▲ A.F.S. student Arlene Vasquez accompanied by Christie Pugh poses as the Costa Rican Cowboy.

Ferguson Crowns Gail Mitchell Queen

The atmosphere of Homecoming started early with the distribution of blue and white carnations sold by the Debate Club and sent to special friends. The Homecoming excitement intensified when the court in their formal wear was presented by selected men in tuxedos donated by Prince Formal for the occasion. Each class put on a skit about the Phoebus football game and continued their spirit in the Pep Rally that afternoon. Half time at the football game was the 'happening of the week', as Gail Mitchell was crowned Homecoming Queen of Ferguson High for 1981-82. Ferguson took the victory in the game which ended in a score of Ferguson 21, Phoebus 14. Saturday night was a special night for all as everyone enjoyed the first formal dance, with music from Slapwater.

▲ Kim Scruggs, escorted by her date, David Warren, makes her way out onto the field.

▲ Bobby Coggin escorts Vondrenna Douglas in the Homecoming Assembly.

▲ Matthew Darden escorts Gail Mitchell off the field after she was crowned Ferguson's 1981-82 Homecoming Queen.

“Cheaper By The Dozen” Was Drama’s Fall Success

Tryouts started in November for the play, “Cheaper by the Dozen,” and a week later cast members had their parts. They worked five days a week, sometimes until eleven o’clock. And when the curtains finally opened, the cast was ready to perform. The play was about a family with twelve kids who were all very smart. The girls in the family wanted very much to date and have boyfriends, but their father who was suffering from a serious heart ailment would not permit it. He wanted the children to grow up fast so that he could watch them, for he knew he was dying. He pushed them through school so that they could get jobs to support their family. In the end the father dies, and the whole play is a flashback of fond memories of their father.

▲ Frank and Ernestine (Shawn Bradley and Jera Killam) relax during a family discussion.

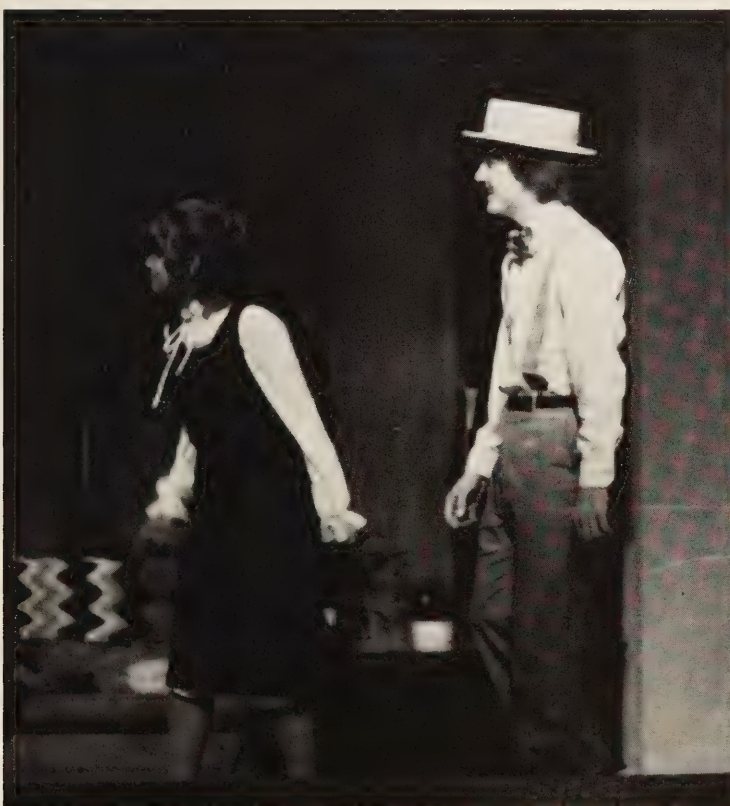

▲ Miss Brill (Lisa Olds), argues with Mr. Gilbreth (Paul Weaver), about Anne’s examination.

The Gilbreth kids show mixed emotions as Ann (Laura Palmer) receives her first call for a date.

Anne is harrassed by her brothers, concerning her "cheerleader" date.

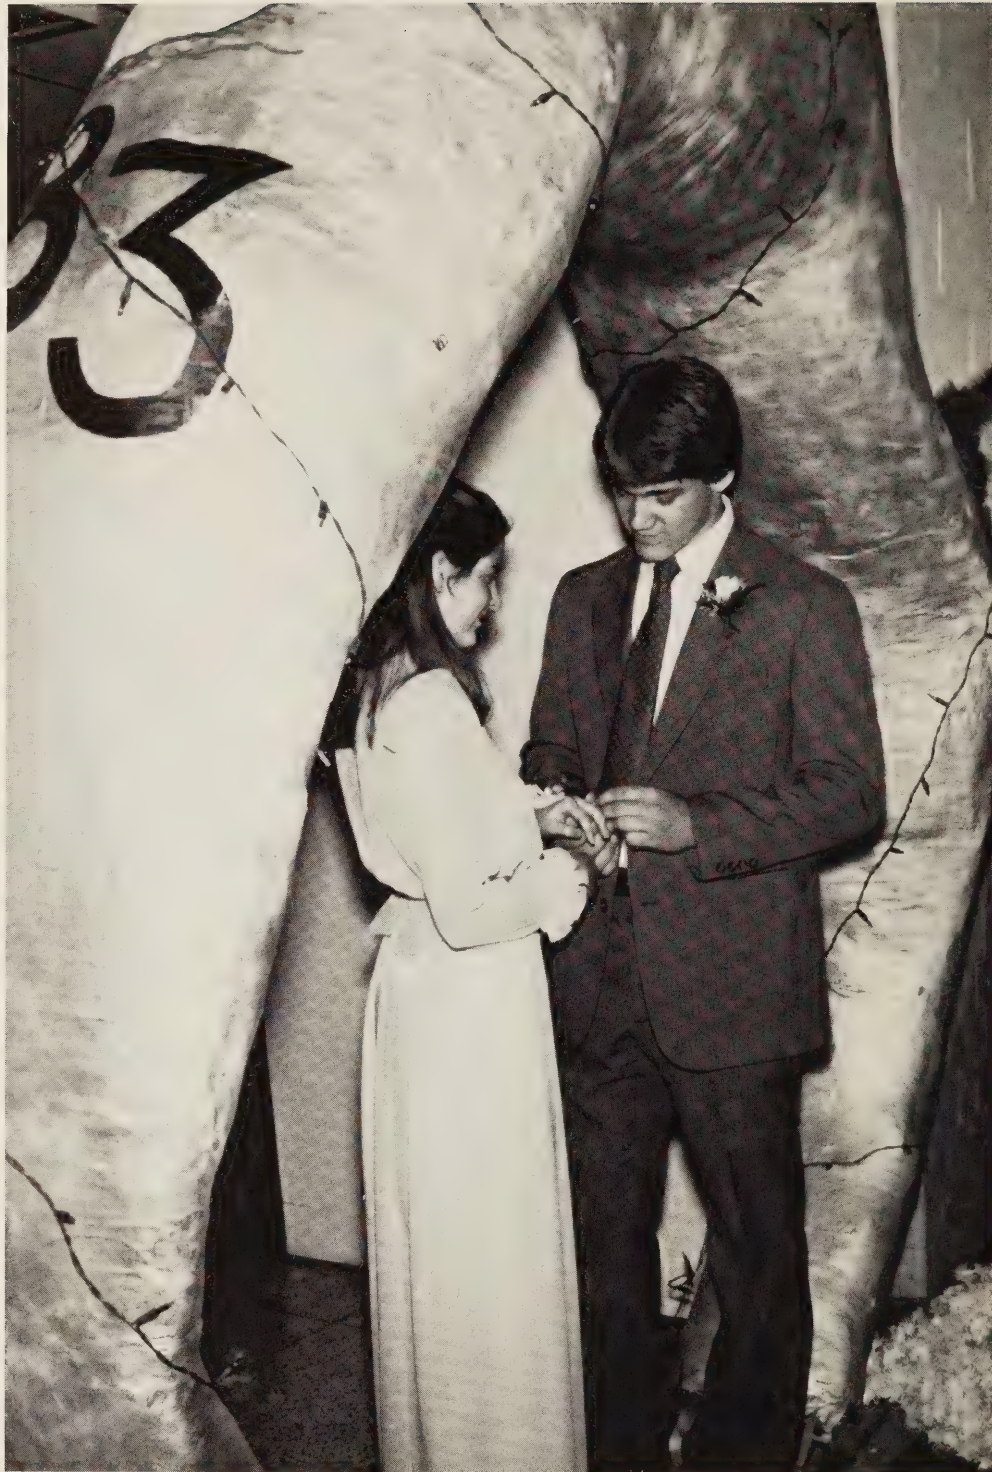

Mrs. Gilbreth (Lee Ann Crockett) and the maid (Cathy Ward) argue about the help in the kitchen.

Junior Couples Enjoy Ring Dance

The festivities for Ring Dance began long before the actual dance. Preparing the ring and other decorations was a big task for Ring Dance Committee. Juniors sold candy to help raise money for the band Harvest and decorations to match their theme "Just Once." Rings were ordered from Josten's Ring Co. and Friday before the dance they were tried on to make sure they fit. The day of Ring Dance Juniors gathered in the cafeteria to decorate and help get ready for the big night.

The highlight of Saturday night finally arrived when Mark Kramer announced the couples as they walked through the ring after receiving their rings. Admiring each others' rings, the Juniors continued to dance to the music provided by Harvest.

▲ Craig Blanford affectionately places Wendy Pleninger's new ring on her finger, as she waits for the traditional Ring Dance kiss.

▲ Mariners go from rowdie to romantic during slow songs.

▲ Juniors display mixed emotions as they watch their fellow classmates kiss under the ring.

▲ Stacey Canty and Casey Vick groove to the sound of Harvest.

Spring Events Stimulate Students' Interest

As the new semester opened, Ferguson High School began planning several special events to stimulate students' interest. These events varied from a Musical to Fine Arts Week. The Miss Mariner Pageant on February 27 was sponsored by the Senior Class and produced by the Drama Department. Senior Tracy Truitt and Junior Apprentice Shannon Martin were in charge of organizing and choreographing twenty-two girls picked by various clubs and organizations to represent them. The girls performed an opening number, modeled casual wear supplied by Charles and formal wear of their own choosing. Five top finalists were announced the night of Miss Mariner and the lucky winner took over the title from Lori Hollowell who won last year.

Besides the Miss Mariner Pageant students participated in Fine Arts Week in March. A few activities which took place included presentation by the Radford Band and Hampton Institute Choir and local artists displaying their different crafts. The students themselves were involved by displaying their own talents in drawing, painting, and wood carving.

The Drama Department began rehearsal in February for their play to be presented in March. Spring plans included a musical in addition to the March presentation of the mystery drama "Exit the Body."

This season was the time for Seniors, as they ordered their caps and gowns and prepared for Senior Activities. They began to anticipate and plan for The Senior Banquet and Prom in May and Graduation itself on June 13. Prom plans included Sandcastle as the band for the second year and the Greek Hellenic Center for its location.

Vivian Budding, Agnes Crissman, Eileen Levy and Sherri Richmond get together at the elective fair.

Shawn Bradly and Lee Ann Crockett discuss their performance in "Hamlet" on the Elective Fair Night.

Mass confusion takes place while girls begin to practice for the opening number of the Miss Mariner Pageant.

Tracey Truitt demonstrates how to walk like a "young lady" for Miss Mariner.

Susie Hauley, a guide from Keyettes, hands out programs at Elective Fair.

Dimensions of Our Community

The Royal wedding of Prince Charles and Lady Diana captivated the attention of many.

Mike Veazy reads about the Rolling Stones in anticipation of their arrival in the Tidewater area.

▼ A few Mariners were lucky enough to attend the December Rolling Stones Concert.

► The assassination attempts and the Royal Wedding provided news conscious Mariners with much to read about.

▲ Space Shuttle Columbia is ready for its spectacular take off that interested many of the NASA-connected Mariners.

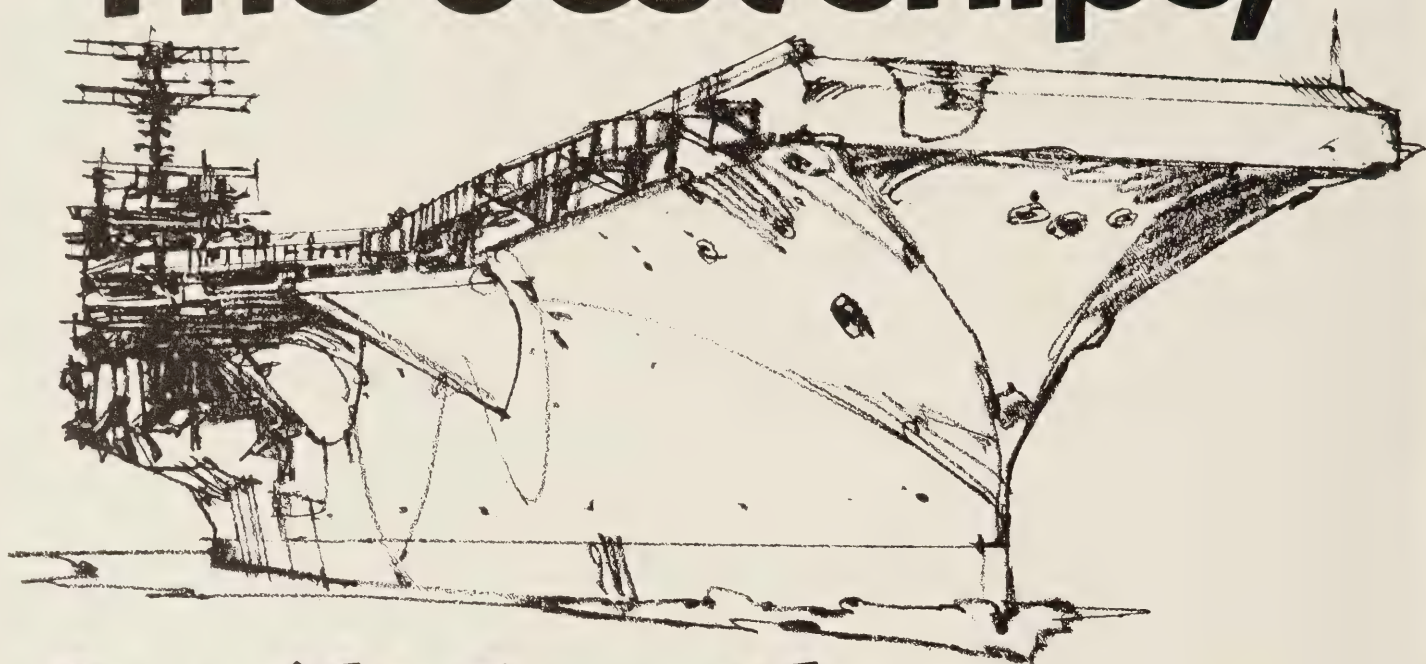

▲ Several artists such as AC/DC and the Police were favorites with Mariners this year.

The National News for 1981-1982 had many exciting and upsetting features. 1981 began with near tragedy — two attempted assassinations on President Reagan and Pope John Paul; and great success, with the landing of the Space Shuttle Columbia. For baseball fans the summer brought antipathy and anxiety. The baseball teams went on strike, postponing the scheduled games for several months. Because of this, the World Series was not held until November. In early fall, Sandra Day O'Connor was sworn in as a Supreme Court Justice. Soon after her election Anwar Sadat, noted as a peacemaker in the Middle East, was assassinated by a hit team. Hollywood lost actress Natalie Wood who came to her death while vacationing off Catalina Island. Finally, General Dozier, who represented NATO in Italy, was kidnapped by the Red Brigade before Christmas. He was held hostage for over 30 days and finally rescued by the Italian police.

The Rolling Stones, a prominent pop rock band, stirred up the city when they performed on December 18 and 19. Their arrival even outshone the Yorktown Bicentennial Celebration, which also provided the same excitement during the fall. President Reagan and Vice President Bush were included in the historical celebration, a series of events attended by over 50,000. In the city of Newport News, a serious gas leak next to the Sunoco gas station on Warwick Blvd. caused several weeks of aggravation and fear. After several weeks of repair and traffic jams, the leak was finally found and fixed. Several local high schools, including Ferguson, were the target of drug investigations by the city police. Virginians elected a new Governor, 42-year-old Charles Robb, who defeated Republican Marshall Coleman, and returned the governorship to the Democrats.

TO THE CLASS OF 1982

"Education is a companion which no misfortune can depress, no crime can destroy, no energy can alienate, no despotism can enslave. At home a friend, abroad an introduction; in solitude a solace and in society an ornament. It chastens vice, it guides virtue, it gives, at once, grace and government to genius. Without it, what is man? A splendid slave, a reasoning savage."

Terry.

a really sweet and cute girl. It has a really been great having you as a great friend. I can't wait until we get an apartment and really begin to live our lives. I know you have some problems, but I don't want you to forget that I am here to help. I have known you for a long time, but this past year I feel that we have really become the best of friends. Well it is finally time for us to get out of High School and I can't believe it. Most people say "Hope to See You in the Summer" well I'm not going to say that because we plan to live together. Well this is all I have to write. So the best of luck with John.

Love ya,

Stephanie

Can you believe it. I don't see you take in about a month. I hope you have a
I'll remember all our great chats about men.
It's been great. Stay sweet & out of trouble.
Good luck in the future and I hope you find a winner! Love ya,
Kathy
(Good luck)

Terri,
It has been a pretty fun year having you in my Act. class. It really would have sucked if you weren't in here. I wouldn't have had anyone to talk to.
Be good this summer, and get in touch w/me sometime we could go to the beach or something.
Love ☺
P.S. Don't forget I still want your job!

to a really nice good man who is known for a long time good luck in the future. Love Always

Larry

Its hard to believe that
June 13th we shall be graduating.
Cause it seems like such a short time ago we were tripping out on fat Mrs. Lee back in 8th grade.
Oh well, I wish you the best of luck and hope we can stay in touch cause I think alot of you.

P.S. Stay sweet because your
2 cute
+ 2 se
Hen

Love Always
